

Personal Note

I recently returned from a great trip to the San Francisco, CA area! I spoke to professional organizers on how to grow their business and then I spoke at the Nova Studio Bath & Body Business Bootcamp. Both groups were so much fun to meet and I had a great time sharing my business and organizing principles.

I am so glad I overcame my fear of speaking years ago so I can speak to people all over the country, share my expertise, and have a ton of fun! It's time for you to be fearless. Read the feature article below and take action!

Fearlessly yours,

Fearless Organizing™ - It's Time to be Fearless!

You may read about my speaking engagements in my newsletters and think that this is no big deal for me. That it's easy for me to get up and speak in front of audiences. Well, up until a few years ago you would have been totally wrong!

For most of my life the thought of getting up and speaking terrified me beyond belief. I was the kind of person who always sat in the back row and was extremely happy to be there! Never did I think that I would ever be a speaker.

That is until I started my business in 2000. I had known for some time how wonderful it was to live in an organized home and I wanted to share my knowledge with others. I figured that if I just told others about this new business I started that my phone would ring off the hook! It didn't happen.

I then realized that I needed to get out and educate people on the need for organization and why they should hire me to help them. When a friend of mine offered me her spa's meeting room so that I could hold workshops, I looked at her like she was crazy! Me, get up and speak? Absolutely not. But, I am a very determined and stubborn woman, and soon realized that this was the best option for me to let others know about my expertise.

As I started giving small workshops, something very interesting happened. Audience members not only began hiring me to help them get organized at home and work but also started asking me to speak to their groups. This was working!

I realized something else, too. By being fearless I took back control of my life and business and started making things happen. Was I scared? Of course! Was I happy that I became fearless, took action, and saw results? Absolutely!

Being fearless comes from deep within you and you can be fearless when you realize how worthwhile you are and how valuable the information is that you need to share with the world.
